Before The Flood

The documentary Before the Flood, which came out in 2016, was made by Leonardo DiCaprio and Fisher Stevens. It talks about the problems our planet is having because of climate change. During the film, we see several real situations that make us think about what is happening in the world.

Introduction

The film is about things like ice melting, deforestation, and rising sea levels. DiCaprio travels to many countries and shows shocking images, such as destroyed forests in Indonesia and cities floods. He also explains that pollution on the planet has worsened the situation.

2. Main Points

One part that really touched me was when they showed an island where people are losing their homes because of the sea rising. It made me see that this problem is serious and already happening now.

3. Personal Opinion

After watching the film, I started thinking that I can also do something. Small things like recycling better or walking more instead of using a car can already help (Although I already do this). And I also talk about this with my parents.

I think more people should watch this movie. Sometimes we forget that every choice we make has an impact. And if everyone helps a little, maybe we can still save the planet.
